

nature and not such as to involve moral turpitude.

The mere delivery of lectures or speeches urging women to strive for what she believed to be their rights and to forward and help a political cause, and such act, therefore, cannot be deemed an offense at all, a political offense. Nor can it be claimed or successfully ascertained that the mere urging of her hearers to destroy property, if necessary, to bring about the desired result, is an act involving moral turpitude.

Admits Five Convictions.

"She admitted in her examination that she has been convicted in England five times. The first three offenses were for obstructing the police in the performance of their duty. In each of these instances the wrong complained of was an attempt on her part to present a petition in behalf of the movement for equal suffrage for women.

"The fourth and fifth charges and convictions were for conspiracy, the first a charge of conspiracy to destroy property. In both instances she was convicted as an accessory before the fact. It was never claimed, and it was never attempted to be proved, that she had any actual participation in the destruction of property, but she was simply charged and convicted of making speeches and delivering lectures inciting people to rebellion or to the destruction of property. If necessary to further the movement for the equal suffrage for women, the object sought to be attained by the applicant alone is the procurement of the right of equal suffrage for women. This, it must and surely will be conceded, even by the enemies of that movement, is to be a laudable purpose—at least not a crime or the product of a crime.

"The acts of this alien for which she has been convicted may very properly be attributed to the acts of an editor of any periodical, who, through flaming editorials, cartoons, etc., incites people to violent acts, such as was asserted against certain editors after the assassination of President McKinley.

Cites Immigration Law.

"The administration law, section 2, after specifying the classes of aliens who shall be excluded, provides as follows:

"Provided, that nothing in this act shall exclude, or otherwise inadmissible, persons convicted of an offense purely political, not involving moral turpitude."

"It has been held by this department in the case of Edward F. Mylius that the accepted rule seems to be that to constitute a political offense it is necessary to show something in the nature of concerted action. There must be a conspiracy to a common movement, as a part of which the offense is committed. When this is true, even if the offense is committed by a single individual, it is regarded as a mere incident to the promotion of a political cause.

"The applicant for a lecture in New York, Cleveland, Canton, Dayton, Cincinnati, Nashville, Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis, Toledo, Detroit, Hartford, Providence, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia, on the subject of equal suffrage for women, and her admission is hereby requested, and her contract obligations.

Pledges Lawful Conduct.

Attorney F. S. O'Neill referred to Mrs. Pankhurst's pledge that she would conduct herself in a lawful manner while in this country.

"She has made that pledge to the American people and she will keep it," declared the attorney. "In every shop declared in this land today women's heads are bowed in mute appeal to this department for the liberty of this distinguished woman. Commissioner Caminetti asked if Mrs. Pankhurst intended to preach militancy here.

"Emphatically no," responded O'Neill. "We have her assurances on that point and we state them to you as strongly as possible."

Mr. Caminetti announced that he would not take into consideration the suffragist's lecture contracts, nor would he consider argument pertaining to the recent case of Marie Lloyd, the English music hall singer. Commissioner Caminetti said that the activities and arrests of Mrs. Pankhurst were admitted to the record.

Case of Marie Lloyd.

During the hearing Mrs. Pankhurst's lawyers brought up as a precedent the case of Marie Lloyd, the actress, who was detained at Ellis Island recently because she crossed with a man not her husband. Mr. Caminetti said he would not consider that case at all.

"That was no precedent for this case," he said, rather warmly.

The attorneys replied that they cited the case because Miss Lloyd was admitted on bond to fulfill theater engagements.

The entire business of the immigration department gave way before the Pankhurst case this morning. Newspaper reporters filed every minute at the bureau and had the telephone connected with their offices in order to give the latest news.

Suffrage Senators Agree on the President's Stand

Senator Thomas of Colorado, chairman of the woman suffrage committee of the Senate, said with reference to

Mrs. Pankhurst's admission to this country.

"I have not given the matter sufficient consideration to discuss the admission of Mrs. Pankhurst. I will say, however, that I believe that the cause of woman suffrage in the country could never be advanced through the adoption of the militant methods for which Mrs. Pankhurst has stood in England."

Senator Borah of Idaho, who also hails from a state where women are permitted to vote, said:

"I think that the President has acted wisely in admitting Mrs. Pankhurst to this country. It was the proper thing to do. If the women of this country adopt the campaign principles of Mrs. Pankhurst and her methods of lawlessness and crime, the cause of woman suffrage will be set back a decade in the United States. The women of the country must deal with Mrs. Pankhurst."

Received Much Admiration.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon also declared himself in favor of the admission into this country of Mrs. Pankhurst. He said he thought it had been a great mistake ever to consider denying Mrs. Pankhurst admission to the United States, and that she had received a lot of admiration as a result of it.

He insisted that Mrs. Pankhurst will be unable to do any harm here and that the people of this country are not of the type which would permit militant methods on the part of the suffragists.

"The object sought to be attained by the woman suffrage constitutional amendment to the Senate from the woman suffrage committee in 1907 was not to believe, and had never believed, that violence should be used to obtain the elective franchise. The logical manner in which to obtain equal suffrage," he said.

THROWN FROM CATHEDRAL.

Senator Lane of Oregon said:

"I see no reason for not admitting Mrs. Pankhurst. If she must make a fool of herself that will be her misfortune. Let her come here and tell her story, if she desires. I believe in the freedom of speech."

American Women Not Permitted to Make Pankhurst Demonstration.

LONDON, October 20.—Suffragettes again interrupted the services yesterday at St. Paul's and also at St. Luke's, Kensington, where the Bishop of London was preaching, by reciting a prayer for "Mary Richardson and Annie Kenney, who are being forcibly ejected."

"I see no reason for not admitting Mrs. Pankhurst. If she must make a fool of herself that will be her misfortune. Let her come here and tell her story, if she desires. I believe in the freedom of speech."

The report also showed the growth of the society in membership, and what has been done in the way of writing letters, selling and giving away goods, supplying physical wants to the needy, and the like. The membership has reached more than 20,000. There are junior societies whose members range from 10 to 100. The number of women in the society is increasing. It was announced that some of the societies in Australia have been contributing on an average of $2.50 a member per year, while some in the United States have averaged $1.75.

Appeal for Leadership.

An appeal was made for more efficient leadership among the various societies, and one of permanency. The union conference presidents pledged themselves to support the result that the union conference will be put forth in the different societies in the United States and Canada to win more workers for the cause. Others in the volunteer army of the cause spoke of the advancement of the work. Mrs. Matilda Erickson, secretary of the North American department, said that she was ejected from the general department and Elder Meade McGuire of Loveland, Colo., field secretary of the North American department.

GARRISON TO SEE CANAL

Secretary Garrison, accompanied by Mrs. Garrison and Brig. Gen. Erasmus M. Weaver, chief of coast artillery, plan to leave Washington tomorrow afternoon for New York, to sail on the following day for Panama. The Secretary expects to spend a week in an inspection of the canal construction and in conference with Col. Goethals and other members of the canal commission regarding the legislation necessary for the operation of the great waterway after its completion. The party will sail from Colon November 4 and return to New York, they are due in Washington November 11.

The Secretary's trip has caused an indefinite postponement of the hearing which was to be held at the War Department Wednesday on the application of the Chicago municipality for permission to occupy certain reclaimed lands on the lake front for park purposes.

Two Telephone Linemen Killed.

EBENSBURG, Pa., October 20.—E. C. Thompson and G. W. Wiley, linemen of Brownsville, Pa., were instantly killed here this morning when the telephone line they had thrown over a pole came in contact with a highly charged electric light wire. Foreman Alvin Adams was seriously injured when in an effort to save the men he wrapped his coat around the wire and released it.

Cure of Cigarette Habit Discussed in Address Before Conference at Takoma Park.

One of the features of the efforts to be put forth by the Seventh-day Adventists in the winter of 1913-14, the coming winter will be the universal revival among the young people of the denomination. An extensive report of what the Young People's Missionary Volunteer Society has accomplished since its organization in 1907 was presented by Prof. M. E. Kern, secretary of the department, before the North American division, Seventh-day Adventists, in session today at Takoma Park. Prof. Kern said that the society throughout the world has contributed over $100,000 to the support of the gospel, in addition to paying tithes, and giving regularly to the Sabbath school, midsummer, annual and other offerings for foreign missionary endeavor.

The report also showed the growth of the society in membership, and what has been done in the way of writing letters, selling and giving away goods, supplying physical wants to the needy, and the like. The membership has reached more than 20,000. There are junior societies whose members range from 10 to 100. The number of women in the society is increasing. Steps in Eradicating Habit.

The three steps in the cure for smoking as prescribed by Dr. Kress in his lecture, were:

"The first and most important step is to wean the mouth from the victim of one-sixth of one per cent solution of silver nitrate. This treatment is repeated three times daily (after each meal) for three days. It effects to nauseate the patient if he tries to smoke after using it."

The second step is dieting. The patient is recommended to eat nothing but fresh fruit for the first three days. Following the fruit diet, for one week nothing but bread and butter should be eaten in addition. After that vegetables may be added to the diet, using only the best quality of food. Milk should be drunk in place of coffee.

The third step is designed to remove nicotine from the system. An eliminative bath three times a week is prescribed. This bath should be of the electric light, for a couple of weeks.

In his long experience Dr. Kress has found that the most successful cures being brought about by such a change in the diet and following the rules mentioned.

The Anti-Smoking League conducts a free clinic in Chicago, and its aim, Dr. Kress says, is to especially aid private physicians, and street vendors in that city. The league has found, he says, that in the city of Chicago the use of cigarettes is almost universal among the boys who are employed as messengers and newsboys, and that possibly 75 per cent of the boys attending high schools smoke.

Dr. Kress will remain at the council for several days.

Madero's Plea for Peace.

The grand commander says Grand Commander Castell informed him President Madero was anxious to establish peace in his republic and wished that the United States would use its Masonic capacity to Masons along the border to assist and co-operate in the promotion of peace in his country.

Accordingly, he said, a proclamation of peace should be issued by the United States, and distributed in considerable numbers where they would do the most good.

Much space is given by the grand commander to what is known as the grand orient of Spain, which has been organized to organize lodges in Pennsylvania and California. The grand commander also discusses the Order of Colonial Masters, to which he refers to the Supreme Council of Greece to relieve sufferers from the results of the Balkan war.

The first council of the new House of the Temple, at 16th and S streets northwest, in this city, the grand commander says, has been organized at an expenditure of more than $25,000 in addition to the contract sum, and that the building has been completed and the work of completion and furnishing. (The executive committee appointed by the Supreme Council of Greece to organize the temple, it is said, is ready to recommend the second contract at a cost of probably $50,000.)

Reference was also made to the subject of international peace and arbitration, in which the grand commander states that the United States has been very active in the relation to Premaonry and refers to the letter "Humanum Genus" of the Supreme Council of Greece, which has been sent to the Supreme Council of Greece to relieve sufferers from the results of the Balkan war.

of necessity make men better citizens and better qualify them to advocate and practice reforms in every department of life and of the government.

The grand commander, referring to the celebration of the Ghent treaty of peace December 24, 1914, by which hostilities between Great Britain and this country were terminated, a hundred years ago, said that the celebration of the celebration would be the cessation of all business throughout British territory on that day.

As an audience, Dr. Kress said that the members of the Supreme Council of Masons everywhere in some appropriate manner.

In connection with this topic reference is made to the appeal made to him and to the Supreme Council for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, by Grand Commander Jose Castell, of the Supreme Council of Mexico, for the good offices of both in the effort of the President of Mexico to cause the cessation of hostilities along the border line between the United States and this country. WILSON CONFIDENT OF PASSAGE OF CURRENCY BILL

Early Passage Is Assured, He Tells Majority Leader Underwood in Letter.

SENATE COMMITTEEMEN DIFFER IN THEIR BELIEF

Do Not All Agree With President.

Question of Revers for House Is Revived.

President Wilson this morning wrote a letter to Representative Underwood that expresses the greatest confidence in the early passage of a satisfactory currency bill, the most sanguine public utterance the President has made. The letter incidentally revived calls for a reversal of the House vote of the 19th.

The President expressed to callers substantially the same view as in the letter, adding that he believes the bill will become law without changes in the fundamental principles he advocated. Moreover, he said, the House is expected support for the fundamental features of the bill, his conference with members of the Senate committee on banking and currency having brought out many facts that were agreeable to him.

In answer to questions the President said he was led to understand there would be much support for the bill outside the democratic party, and support, too, that did not mean a reversal of the House vote. He said that the President declared he wanted to see the new system and laws have as wide a sympathetic connection with business as possible.

The Letter to Underwood.

The letter to Representative Underwood is as follows:

"My Dear Mr. Underwood: Last week you called upon me, and in view of the very natural desire of the members of the House of Representatives to know why it seemed necessary to keep them continuously in Washington, and when they might expect to be free to go home, if only for a brief interval of adjustment, I asked me what I should tell them. I am glad to say that the House of Representatives is now in a position to pass a bill in the Senate.

"As I then proposed, you, I have had conferences with members of the Senate committee on banking and currency, both democrats and republicans. As a result of these conferences, I feel confident that a report on the bill may be expected not later than the first week in November. Most of the members of the committee with whom I have conferred have shown themselves keenly aware of the disadvantages to the country of any delay in the passage of the bill. I believe that the action of the Senate upon the bill will follow within two or, at the most, three weeks after the report is made.

"I do not believe that there will be any attempt to delay the bill, and I am confident that the Senate will pass it. Senators on both sides realize that the business of the country awaits the legislation in question, and they are desirous to dispose of it promptly. The passage of the bill is assured.

"In the circumstances, I should like to confer with you, as you so kindly suggested, as to the action the House should take while awaiting the result."

Settles Adjournment Question.

The letter of the President dispels, beyond doubt, all question as to an adjournment of Congress, and shows conclusively that the President's desire at that point has been rounded by what appears to be an all-round determination to stick to the job in the Senate and pass a currency bill.

After his conference with the President, the House of Representatives will adjourn for a short time. Arrangements for this reception were completed last night.

"The assumption that it is necessary to issue these notes as government obligations is not correct," said the prince. "The notes are not government obligations, but they are issued by the government, and they are subject to the same laws as the currency of the country. The prince said that the only way to avoid the possibility of inflation of the proposed currency lay in having too large a number of these regional reserve banks. He said that he would place the power in the hands of the federal reserve board to cause a contraction of the currency when it was desirable, in the opinion of the board.

Senator Bristow pointed out that there might be so much difference of opinion regarding this matter in the minds of men that it would set in motion a party issue in the future.

"If Mr. Bryan was at the head of this board, he might believe that it was perfectly all right to have out a large quantity of this currency," said Senator Bristow, "but if, on the other hand, Mr. Aldrich was in charge, he might say that the currency should be contracted."

Mr. Morawitz said that he did not believe there was any danger of inflation of currency under the bill as drawn if the management of the regional banks was fairly intelligent. He favored allowing the reserve board to set a limit to the amount of currency to be issued by the banks.

Not President's Spokesman.

In the Senate today Senator Stone of Missouri undertook to deny a printed statement that he was "spokesman for the President" was to endorse the "currency bill," which Senator Hitchcock and O'Gorman in a speech in the Senate Wednesday. Senator Stone said that his intention was to make a few remarks as to the necessity of the bill, and that he was not authorized to speak for President Wilson. He said anything that could be by any means be construed as "offensive" to members of the banking and currency committee.
